ENOUGH

SO WHY ELECT YOUR MP THAT WAY?

Our current voting system means politicians get elected with less than one in three voters on their side. Under the fairer alternative voting system, every MP will need to win over half the votes

VOTE YES TO FAIRER VOTES IN 2011

Votes that don't count. A government who stopped listening.
Politicians who never give a straight answer.

This is what our current voting system brings us every election. But next year the British people finally have a chance to change our broken system. In 2011 the UK is holding the first ever referendum on the way we vote.

The Alternative Vote (AV) is the new system on offer. Instead of putting a cross in the box, voters rank the candidates in number order. With more choice, we'll finally get a real say about who represents them locally.

We've forced the political elite to give the people a chance for something better than our broken system. Don't waste that chance.

Only you can fix politics - vote 'Yes to AV' in 2011.

3 REASONS TO VOTE YES

- Politicians have to win over half of votes to get elected so they must work harder for their local vote.
- The current system has produced 'safe seats' where politicians have a job for life. The Alternative Vote would mean less safe seats.
- It ensures people can vote for the policies they believe in rather than just voting tactically to keep out their least favourite party.
